3. Talent Management Platform

The Talent Management platform existed in some shape and form alongside the HR operations platform. It came into focus after 2011. The Talent Management platform comprises five key components.

a. Social Media Platform

To recognize employees and create communities.They started as an employee Intranet and evolved as employee collaboration platforms.

d. Learning Management System (LMS)

To capture learning of employees. These are integrated with content management platforms for self learning.

b. Performance Management System

To enable employee performance.

c. Career marketplace

To provide internal opportunities and career paths.

There are multiple technology partners that provide these platforms. You need to choose the best platform based on your business requirements.

How to choose a HR Platform

You may choose an HR technology based on ARCH Methodology

1. Assess Your Needs

You may classify needs in following categories

a. Purpose

Identify the problems you want to solve using the platform. The typical problems include handling a high volume of transactions, process governance, or faster MIS (Management Information System). The problems also depend on the phase (startup, growth, maturity, or decline) of the organization.

b. Budget

The money you want to spend on solving the problems.
