

Suppose you know that your attrition rate is 30%. Will you be able to do something about it? You would want to know the reasons behind it.

This analysis will help you create an action plan to reduce attrition. If you use statistical tools for analysis then you will be able to predict the attrition beforehand. This is the description of HR analytics.