

Achievement and Recognition Cycle

The achievement and recognition cycle is derived from the components of the motivation factors. It suggests that

The variable compensation must be linked to achievement of goals.

You must design your jobs to have goals.

You must make a portion of the compensation variable instead of offering a completely fixed compensation package.