

c. Employee Stock Purchase Plan (ESPP)

An ESPP offers employees the opportunity to purchase stock shares of the organization at a discounted rate, typically 15% lower than the market price.

The employees choose to contribute a specific percentage of their salary for the plan. The contributions are used to purchase stock shares of the organization on behalf of the employees. The ESPPs also have a vesting period.

You may decide to issue 40,000 shares to an employee, with 10,000 shares being granted each year for four years.

The vesting period of each grant can be one year. This type of equity program can retain a senior executive for a period of five years.
