

There are more specific options of distribution, including the following.

A. Exclusive

Exclusive distribution means manufacturers choose only a few stores to sell their products, creating exclusivity for their brand. This strategy is used for luxury items, making customers feel a sense of desire and exclusivity toward the products.

For example, cars like Ferrari or Lamborghini typically have limited number of dealerships.

