

Create: Focus on Innovation

- ➡ What new offerings or features should be introduced that existing companies in the market have never provided before?
- ➡ You should think outside the box and provide something unique and valuable to customers. You can create new solutions to address unmet needs by introducing innovative features or experiences.

Phases to Achieve Product-Market Fit

Let's see the progress we have made so far towards achieving product-market fit. Typically, the startup phase involves several phases, including

The above illustrates that the initial product-market fit search spans from ideation to traction, while product-market refinement progresses from traction to growth.