

Initial Product Market Fit Search

During this phase, the focus is on building a minimum viable product (MVP) using the lean startup model. The objective is to determine if there is demand for the product idea by collecting evidence and feedback from the target audience.

The lean startup model focuses on experimentation and customer feedback. MVP helps gather valuable insights about your product and whether it solves a real problem. Hence, get clarity on whether the product is likely to be in demand or not.

