

Re-engaging Inactive Customers

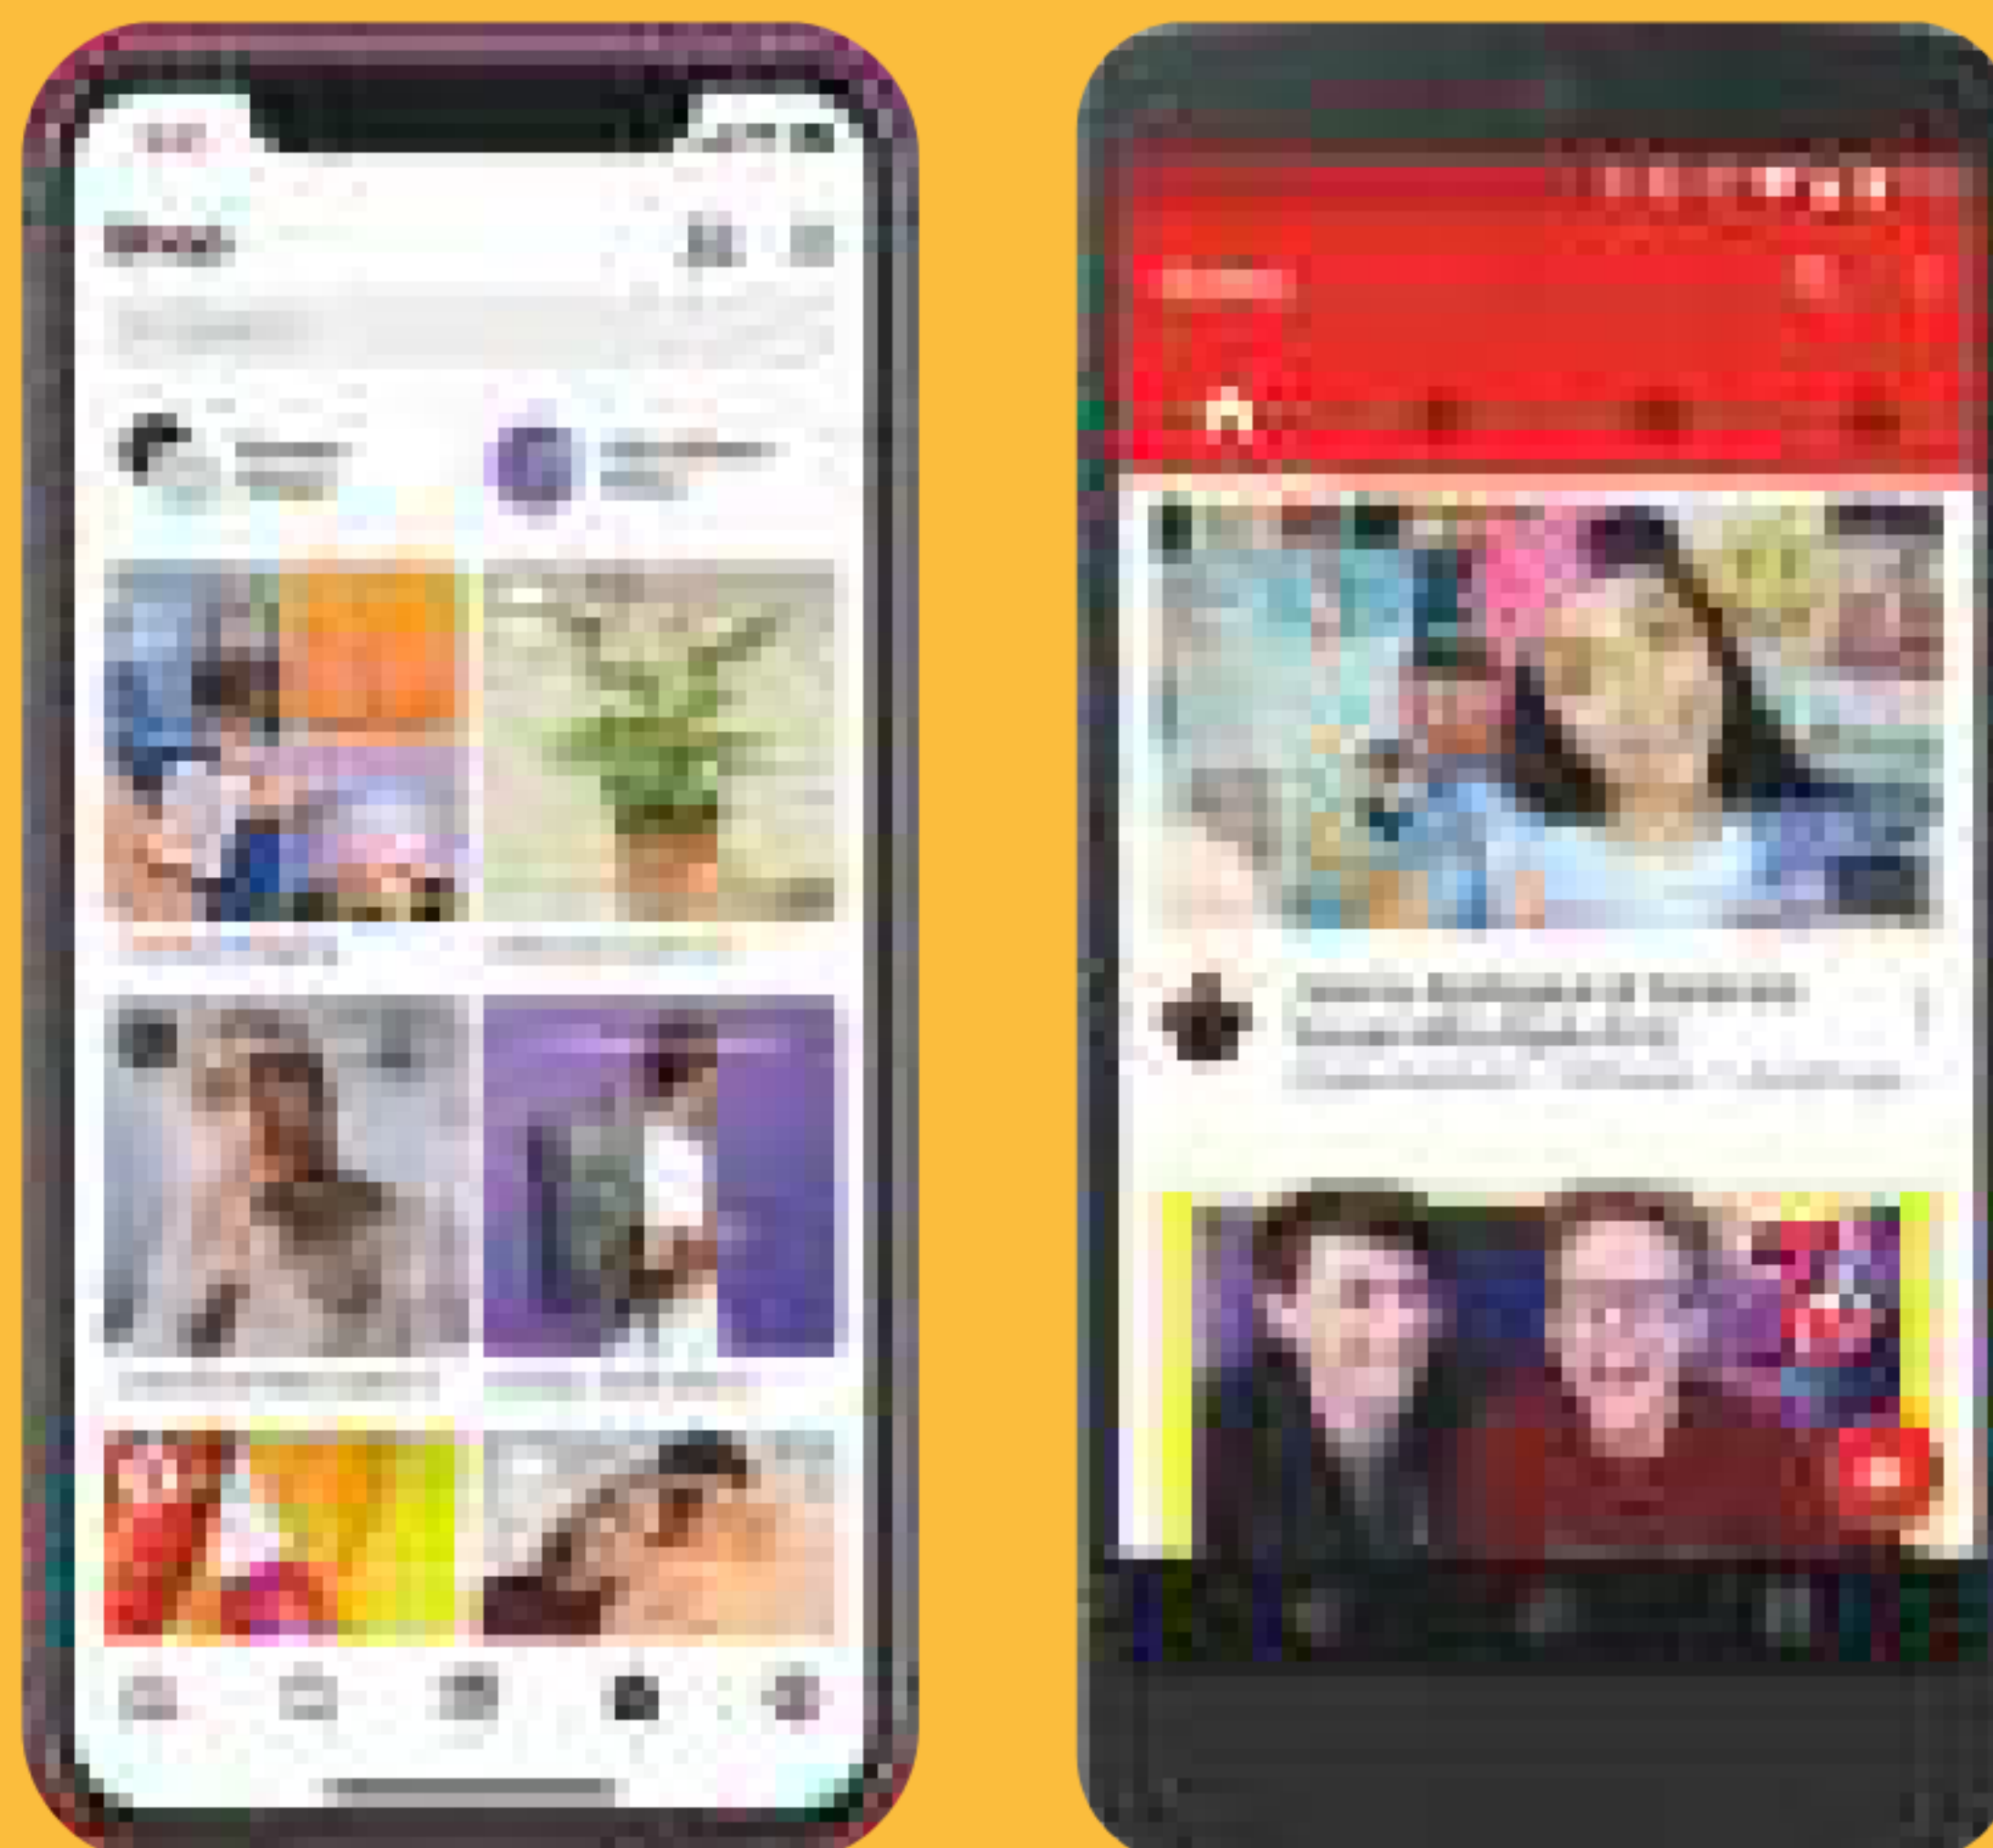

If customers are no longer returning, ask them to provide feedback. In the case of the subscription or renewal model, reaching out to these inactive customers and asking for feedback is easier. This feedback can be used to improve customer satisfaction and retention rates.

For example, Netflix reaches out to inactive subscribers for feedback, making it easy for them to share their reasons for leaving. This feedback helps Netflix improve its offerings and keep customers satisfied.

Leveraging Social Media for Reviews

Social media platforms like Instagram, YouTube, Facebook, and LinkedIn are powerful tools for gathering feedback. Users actively share their experiences, and engaging with them on these platforms can enhance brand credibility. Optimizing SEO through social media reviews also boosts visibility.

For example, A beauty brand Nykaa encourages customers to share their experiences and reviews of their products on Instagram and YouTube. They post user-generated content and testimonials, leveraging the visual appeal of these platforms to showcase their products in real-life situations.

