

Demographics

It involves characteristics such as age, gender, income, education, and occupation. For example, a fashion retailer might target teenagers with trendy clothing styles, young professionals with work-wear options, and middle-aged individuals with more classic attire.

Teens	Young Professionals	Middle Aged
Age - 13-18 Years	Age - 20-25 Years	Age - 30-35 Years

Geographic Segmentation

Geographic segmentation divides customers by location. Businesses can design their products or services to suit the preferences of different geographic areas.

For example, a clothing retailer might target urban areas with trendy and fashion-forward clothing styles while focusing on more modest and practical attire for customers in rural areas.

Urban Area
Trending and
Fashion Forward

Rural Area
Modest and Practical

