

➤ The Power of Intrinsic Motivation

Intrinsic motivation is derived from personal satisfaction, fulfillment, curiosity, control, interest, and enjoyment. For example, playing badminton because you enjoy it rather than just winning it.

Survival Instinct is to save the startup since it is the passion - Your startup is based on passion. Hence, you will put in all the efforts to save it from failure. You can go into such depth to deal with obstacles and keep the startup running. The emotional investment gives a strong survival instinct to fight through all the challenges.

Deep Alignment - The passion is deeply aligned with the beliefs, thoughts, values, and ethics, so it resonates in a way that gives a reason for building it and a sense of fulfillment. This kind of alignment can lead to greater success in the startup journey.

