

Cultivating an Inspiring Environment

1

Meditation: This involves becoming aware of your thoughts and allowing them to flow without attachment. It is about calmly acknowledging and observing them as they arise and pass. Practicing this helps in letting go and refocusing on the present moment. Meditation calms the mind and creates space for intuition and clarity.

2

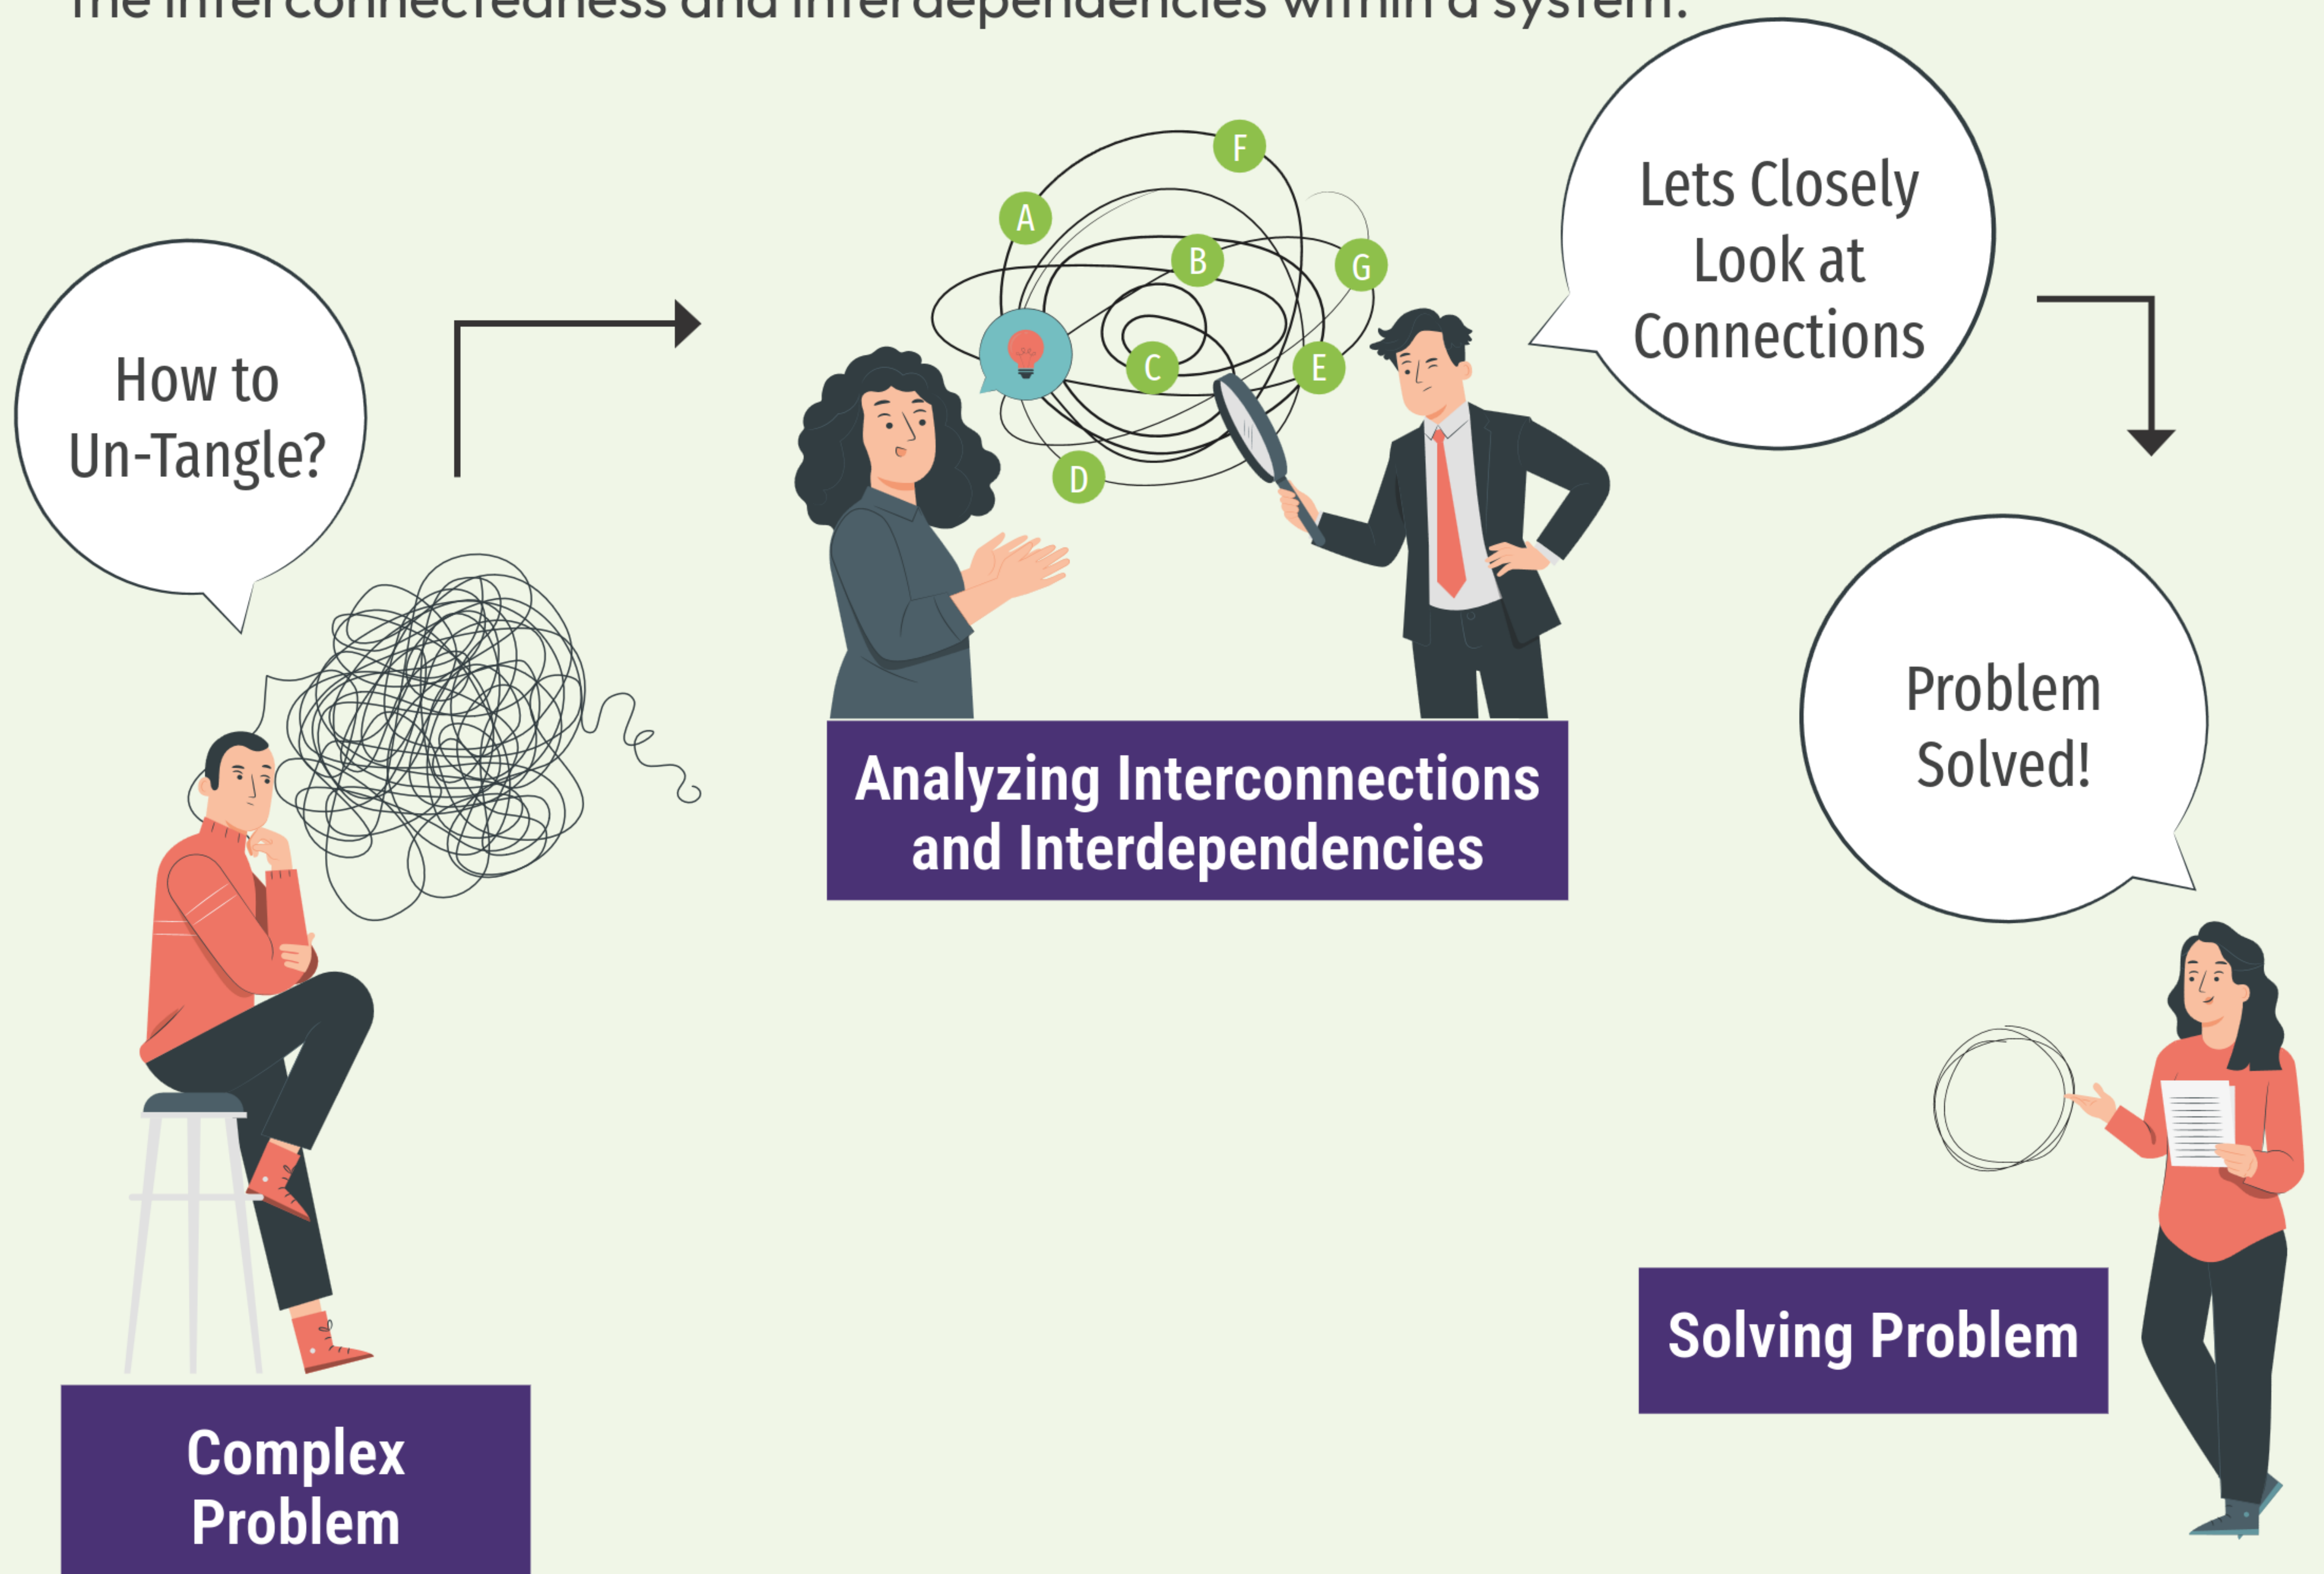

Listening to Your Body: Pay attention to physical sensations and gut feelings. When a decision aligns with you, it provides subtle hints, such as a sense of calmness and ease.

3

Learning from Experience: This allows your subconscious mind to guide you based on past experiences and insights.

4. Systems Thinking Framework

It is a holistic approach to comprehending and solving complex problems by analysing the interconnectedness and interdependencies within a system.

In decision-making, this framework encourages individuals to consider the broader context, relationships, and feedback loops that impact outcomes.
