

Going Global

Can your product or service scale globally? If they can be adapted and marketed worldwide, your business has greater growth potential. Products like headphones, for instance, can succeed globally. But if it only serves a local need, your expansion is limited.

Example: Popularity of Headphones

Are your headphones popular around the world?

