

Everyone looks up to you and will follow your lead. It reflects on your company and what you value. It helps you build solutions to your problems together and keeps you growing. Overall, it is important to set the right tone, as it helps to build a productive and motivated team.

