

I would see my mom frustrated at times because she knew we could afford a better lifestyle, but my dad was very strict about this. Fast forward to my parents turning 50, they are living a luxurious life, travelling the world, bought a house and have saved up enough for their retirement.

I believe because my dad didn't have the security of a paycheck and a stable source of income, it led him to make the choices he made. However, even people who are salaried should learn from this.

Overall Savings

Luxurious Life

If we keep increasing our standard of living with every paycheck, we won't ever be able to save more and increase our wealth pot. With social media influencing us to buy more and show off, we today are far more likely to inflate our lifestyle rather than save.
