

But why can you take more risks if your time horizon is longer? Let us understand this with an example.

As we can see here, the stock market is very volatile in the short term and has given negative returns.