As my expenses grew it wasn't possible for me to write down each and every entry.

So I made a smart system that helps me track broadly where my money is going, which I'll share with you in this chapter.

A lot of people don't really know where their money is being spent and find it difficult to save. But it is important to track your finances and budget so that you don't have financial troubles. This will also help you achieve your other financial goals in life.
