

3. Investment Portfolio:

Asset Allocation: This shows how the fund's money is distributed across different asset classes, like stocks, bonds, and cash.

Top 10 Holdings (in %): This reveals the fund's biggest investments, giving you an idea of the companies, it focuses on.

Cash Holding (in %): This shows how much cash the fund is currently holding. It is useful to judge a fund manager's current view of the market. If the cash proportion is higher means he/she expects the market to be overvalued and hence he is not fully investing the funds.

Portfolio turnover: This tells you how often the fund buys and sells its investments. Ideally, it should be consistent over time. Allocation to AAA and government securities (only for debt mutual funds).
