But then BKC and LowerParel became preferred locations to Nariman Point for corporations, and real estate prices dropped around that area. There were also some newer constructions in south Bombay, and because of all this, today, my relatives' flat would fetch them not more than 10-12Cr.

But it was still a good decision as it provided a roof over their head for those 40 years. The home that you live in serves a purpose larger than just returns.

However, if you are buying real estate just for investment, then there are two kinds that you can buy:
