

It is significant that one of the basic requirements for a man to be in a position of spiritual leadership is that "He must be one who manages his own household well" (1 Timothy 3:4). Our Lord even taught that the quality of our stewardship in this life will determine our reward in the next (Matthew 25:14-30). The simple fact is that we cannot be truly effective for God if we fail to manage our finances well.

The enemy knows this, and perhaps that is why he seems to work so hard to snare young families and render them ineffective through unwise spending, lack of discipline, debt, worry, and other problems related to money.

If you're experiencing any of those difficulties, whether you're just starting out or approaching the crisis point, this book is for you. It will revolutionize the way you view your finances. If you practice the principles it teaches, you'll discover how to glorify God through managing your money wisely, and you'll take an important step toward living without anxiety.

John F. MacArthur, Jr.
Grace Community Church
Sun Valley, California