

prices on the item within that 30 days. Third, never have more than one item on your impulse list at any time. Do you know what you'll find if you do this? You won't buy on impulse, because first, before the 30 days are up, you'll find something else you want more than the first item. So you'll scratch the first item off and add your new item. Then you'll have to wait another 30 days, and the impulse will pass (usually).

In summary, I encourage Christian couples to accept the fact that unless you communicate about your finances, you can never achieve oneness, because money is the one subject that's going to occupy the majority of your time.

6 CREDIT CARDS

There are a lot of myths about credit that young couples need to understand. The first is that you must have credit in our society. Don't misunderstand. There is nothing unbiblical about borrowing money. Scripture does not prohibit borrowing. But there is not one positive reference in all of the Bible to borrowing money. All references to borrowing are negative. Most of them are warnings. For instance, according to Proverbs 22:7, "The rich rules over the poor, and the borrower becomes the lender's slave." I would encourage every young couple to memorize that proverb and believe it. It is all too easy in our society to be in bondage to lenders.

DO YOU NEED CREDIT?

Many young couples ask, "How can we establish credit?" The first thing I try to convince them is, don't establish credit unless you have a specific purpose for it and you know how to use it wisely. I believe that every credit card should have
