

About the Author

It all started innocently enough in 1969, when ten-year-old Mary Potter Kenyon spied an offer for a free Super Ball on the back of a Cheerios cereal box. Before long, she was clipping the Sunday coupons and foraging in her mother's cabinets for labels to send in for cash. When she started her own family in 1980, Mary Potter Kenyon began honing her couponing skills to become a local Coupon Queen.

Mary graduated from the University of Northern Iowa with a BA in Psychology. She lives in Manchester, Iowa, with three of her eight children. Mary currently writes a weekly couponing column for the Dubuque Telegraph Herald, where she is touted as the "Tri-State Area's Coupon Queen." She holds couponing and writing workshops for NICC and Hawkeye, area community colleges, writing workshops at the River Lights bookstore in Dubuque and does public speaking for women's groups, libraries and writing conferences.

In addition to her career as a couponer, Mary has worked as a freelance writer for twenty years and has had over three hundred articles and essays about parenting, saving money, and homeschooling published in newspapers and magazines such as Home Education, The Sun, Backwoods Home, Back Home, The Writer, Woman's World, and the online magazine LiteraryMama.com. Her essays have been featured in seventeen
