

Information gathered from consumer research is used to design these kinds of marketing tactics, along with media relations campaigns. And whether that is television and newspaper ads or targeting the consumer with some form of promotion, the purpose is the same. The contest, giveaway, rebate, and yes, the mighty coupon is utilized for one reason: to sell more stuff.

And companies have been using the coupon aspect of promotions for a very long time. For over one hundred years, in fact.