

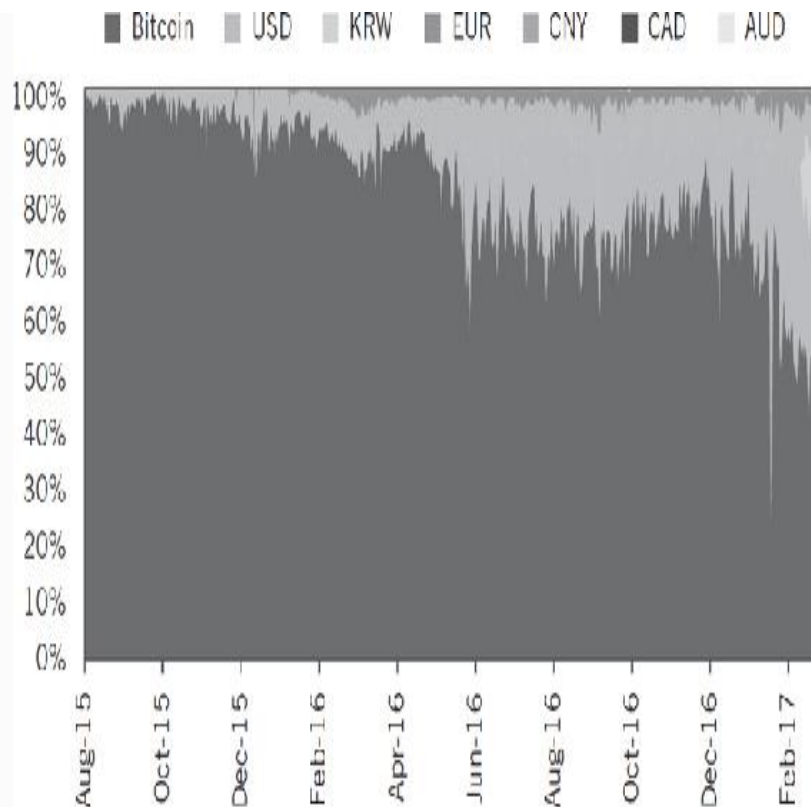

Figure 13.14 ■ Ether's growing currency pair diversity
Data sourced from CryptoCompare

In the one-year period from March 2016 to March 2017, ether went from being traded 12 percent of the time with fiat currency to 50 percent of the time. This is a good sign of the maturation of an asset, and shows it is gaining wider recognition and acceptance.

USER ADOPTION

A number of metrics can assess the state and rate of mainstream adoption. We will focus on those that display the traction of people using the cryptoasset for its core utility. The basic metrics are: