

to track, record, and provide resources for blockchain tax reporting.

Even though the rules regarding taxation of these assets may change, one thing is clear: as with any other asset, the IRS is watching.

