

Notes

- ¹ Paul Raffaele, “In John We Trust,” Smithsonian Magazine (February 2006), <http://www.smithsonianmag.com/people-places/in-john-they-trust-109294882/>.
- ² Peter Worsley, “50 Years Ago: Cargo Cults of Melanesia,” Scientific American (April 20, 2009), <http://www.scientificamerican.com/article/1959-cargo-cults-melanesia/>.
- ³ <http://www.snopes.com/oldwives/hourwait.asp>;
<http://www.snopes.com/oldwives/hairstyle.asp>;
<http://www.snopes.com/science/greatwall.asp>;
<http://www.snopes.com/science/coriolis.asp>, accessed April 20, 2014.
- ⁴ In Wes's case, he believed in Santa Claus until the age of 14—and he still does believe at times. Physics be damned!
- ⁵ B. F. Skinner, “Superstition in the Pigeon,” Journal of Experimental Psychology 38 (1948): 168–172.
- ⁶ B. Graham and D. Dodd, Security Analysis (New York: McGraw-Hill, 1934).
- ⁷ B. Graham, “A Conversation with Benjamin Graham,” Financial Analysts Journal 32 (1976): 20–23.
- ⁸ W. Buffett, “Chairman's Letter,” Berkshire Hathaway Inc. Annual Report, 1989.
- ⁹ “Buffett's Alpha,” a 2013 working paper by Frazzini, Kabiller, and Pedersen, identified that Buffett buys cheap, high-quality firms. So, empirically, one could argue that Buffett is in fact a Ben Graham cheap-stock investor.
- ¹⁰ W. Buffett, “Chairman's Letter,” Berkshire Hathaway Inc. Annual Report, 1977.