

the bed isn't real, and the monster behind the credit card fees can be defused. They might try to pick on the unwitting college student or poor person, but the bully never wins. In the end, he gets his comeuppance. No more stealing candy from babies. The candy is yours, and you get to decide who to share with.