

There are many grants out there for you if you are a non-profit organization!

peek at your credit report, and they pass out up to $5000.

Another opportunity is a loan program of up to $10,000 for women in business (www.count-me-in.org). Also see: www.lib.msu.edu/harris23/grants/3women.htm; www.fundsnetservices.com/women.htm; or www.womensnet.net; plus a host of others. Another helpful resource, www.ehomebasedbusiness.com/articles, provides a list of 25 important telephone numbers for those launching a business.

Pay the Bills...and Other Expenses

I know what you're thinking. You initially picked up this book because you wanted answers on how to cure your debt. Maybe you don't need money to grow a business. Maybe you need money for more immediate things, like paying some of your bills. If you have debt, it's probably holding you back from the things you'd like to do in the future. Perhaps the will to succeed in starting your own business is hindered due to the mounting debt that is crushing you. Well, worry no more! There's a good chance that there is some "free money" out there for you. The only thing is, you have to really look for it to find it, and I'm going to help you do that. There are programs to help with paying utility bills, child care, and even food expenses! There are organizations out there who give out money that they like to call "emergency money." You can use this money to keep debts and monthly expenses under control.

Those Everyday Expenses. Paid.

If you are disabled or if you are a senior, the Supplemental Security Income (SSI) can help you. Funded by general tax revenues, it exists to aid seniors, the blind, and the disabled in paying off their everyday expenses. Blind and disabled children can apply as well. The less income you have, the more you can qualify for. All it takes is an application, and you can be one step closer to paying off your bills. The SSI sends