

year of jubilee (as well as the year of remission) was a voluntary act by a lender to forgive indebtedness—a significant difference.

In some situations a voluntary bankruptcy is acceptable, but only in the context of trying to protect the creditors—never in the context of trying to avoid repayment.

Christians need to accept the hard truth that God allows them no alternative to keeping vows. That is why the Bible warns us to be careful before making vows. “It is better not to vow than to make a vow and not fulfill it” (Ecclesiastes 5:5).
