

It's vital to be totally honest and as accurate as possible. That's why I always work with both the husband and the wife in developing a debtors' list. One partner will often overlook something that the other will recall. The obvious difficulty is that if one spouse is hiding something from the other, he or she will avoid recording it in the creditor listing.

LIST OF DEBTS

as of _____

[illegible]

Since financial problems are usually accompanied by other problems, it is not unusual for one spouse to try to continue the deception if he or she is afraid of the reaction the truth will evoke. If
