

maintain ownership of certain personal assets, such as the wedding rings, but they refused, saying they wanted the creditors to receive as much as possible.

Ultimately, the disgruntled investors who had brought the action received almost nothing for their trouble once the legal bills were paid.

In the meantime, Sandi was pleased to find a part-time job in a nearby hospital's insurance office. Bud searched for a job that would allow him to provide for his family. He decided eventually that selling was the only thing he knew how to do, and he took a job on a commission basis in product sales with a national company. Within three months he had met the minimum quota set by the company but was earning an average annual income of far less than he had earned before. He and Sandi worked out a budget that would allow them to live under this amount, with the rest going to pay the creditors they still owed from the land deals as well as the large bank.

Bud and Sandi settled into a greatly modified lifestyle and committed themselves to getting to know each other better and discovering what the Lord had in store for them.

Bud had violated two fundamental biblical principles that ultimately resulted in his financial disaster: Falling for a get-rich-quick scheme and ignoring his top adviser.

GET RICH QUICK

Symptoms of a get-rich-quick mentality are evident in many investment ideas. There are three distinguishing characteristics.

Risking Borrowed Money

If investments in get-rich-quick schemes were limited to available cash only, most people would be wary of losing it. But somehow it's
