

Better yet, you could ask ChatGPT not to forget some basic information about your field and then introduce your dataset.

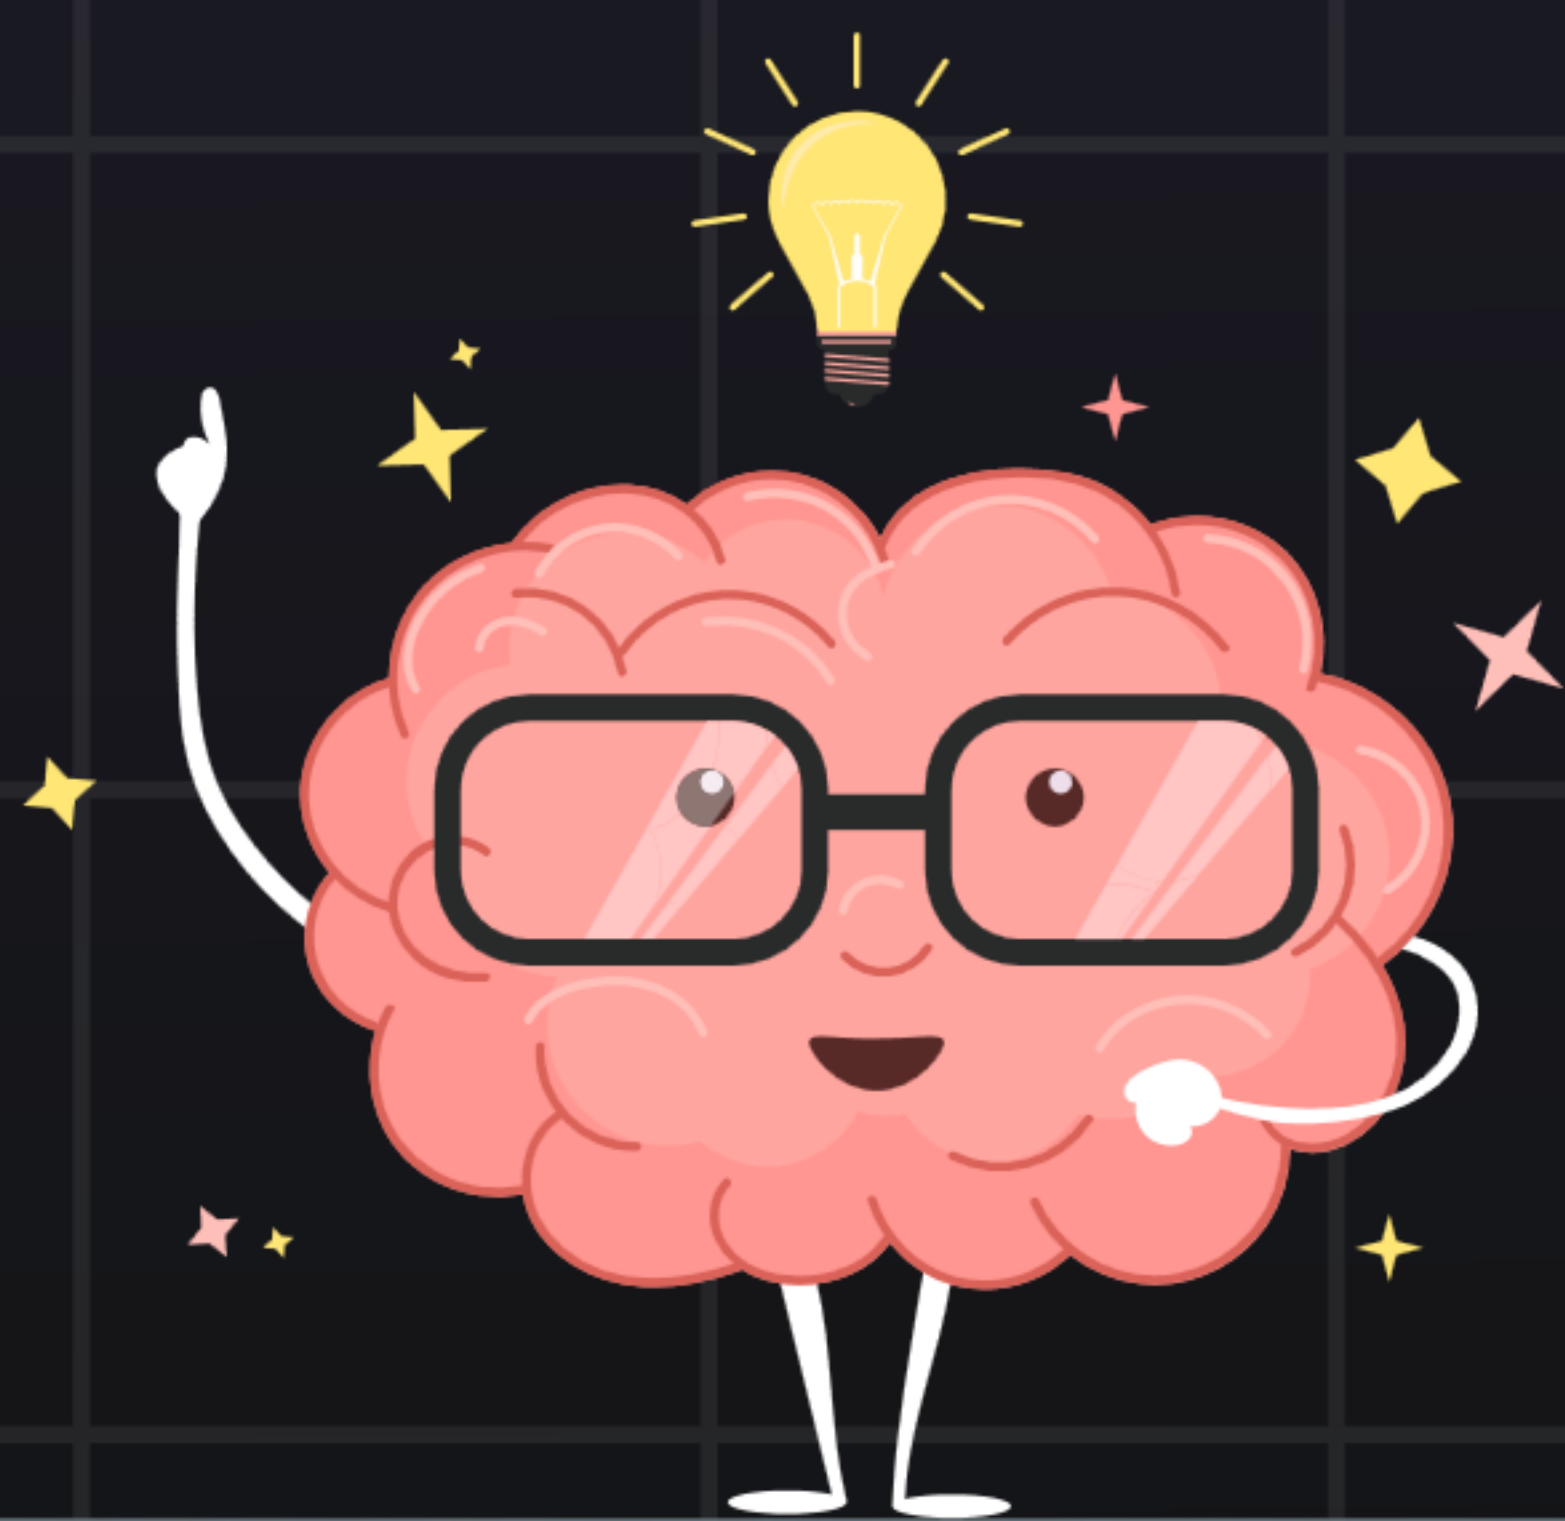

This will result in considerable savings in terms of time and effort. Since you think of AI as a tool, let us liken it to MS Excel, a tool you have used for generations. You do not spend much time building new functions and formulas in MS Excel. Instead, you will use the basic formulas and in extreme cases, you will look for Visual Basic formulas online.
