

Automating note-taking

You can use Fireflies, an AI tool, to automate meeting notes for online meetings. This tool can integrate with platforms like Zoom and Google Meet, allowing you to join meetings on your behalf if you sync it with your calendar. You can choose to let it join automatically or manually invite it.

Automating note-taking by joining meetings automatically or manually

Fireflies transcribes in real-time, identifying speakers and summarizing discussions.

Once in the meeting, Fireflies records and transcribes the discussion in real-time, breaking down who said what and summarising each segment by topic, timing, and context.

Fireflies are ideal for online meetings, whereas TurboScribe and ChatGPT work better for in-person recorded sessions. This dual approach lets you handle both scenarios effectively.
