

The main utility of this tool is the ability to talk to your documents. This saves a lot of research time. It helps understand and contextualise documents and locate where certain information is available in your documents.

You can also export the chat to a document of mine. If you are unhappy with the responses, you can reset the chat. You can even delete a document if you want to do that. You can do a whole lot of things over here.

You can only put 2 PDFs in the free version in a day. After 2 PDFs, they ask you for money. This tool can take up to 110 pages of documents. That is sufficient for most people. So, even when dealing with a large document, you can easily use this tool.