

When you go to an image-sourcing platform like Getty Images, you must shell out a lot of money for images that may not always meet your requirements.

In contrast, AI Generation tools allow you to generate images that meet your requirements with minimal effort.

As a result, these tools are more cost-effective than non-AI tools or platforms. Most AI tools are freely available, and even the paid options are quite affordable.