

Real-time canvas lets you control where each element in the image will be placed.

When you toggle to the ‘inpaint’ window, the blackboard is switched out for the generated image. Then, you can paint over the image in the left window and the image in the right window is updated.

Leonardo.ai also allows users to create gifs where a motion is assigned to an element in an image.