

After this, you tried another prompt, saying, 'Country-side music song about promoting an organic lipstick brand.' Again, click on the 'Create' button.

The output really depends on your own prompting skills. So, the more you know about music, the better prompts you will write, and the better will be the output.

Once again, the tool generated two versions.

Experimented with the genre a bit too much

This was a good song, but you may have played around with the genre a little too much. For both versions, they had male singers. You could do better, so replace 'country' with 'romantic' in the prompt and click on create.