

After saving the files and reloading the browser tab for index.html, the newer version of the application was present. Now, when adding a task, a delete button was available.

So, you see that you can write code 10x times what you normally would if you use generative AI. But this is not all!

Suppose you want to write something unique. You do not like the title and want something better. So, you could go to the index.html file, locate the title tag (<title> </title>) and clear the title. You will see a suggestion for the empty title when you do so. This is because you have installed GitHub Copilot on Visual Basic.
