
JOBS: MILLIONAIRES VERSUS HEIRS

THEY CHOSE THE RIGHT OCCUPATION.

About ten years ago, a reporter from a national news magazine called. She asked the question we are most frequently asked:

Who are the affluent?

By now you probably can predict the answer. Most of the affluent in America are business owners, including self-employed professionals. Twenty percent of the affluent households in America are headed by retirees. Of the remaining 80 percent, more than two-thirds are headed by self-employed owners of businesses. In America, fewer than one in five households, or about 18 percent, is headed by a self-employed business owner or professional. But these self-employed people are four times more likely to be millionaires than those who work for others.

The reporter followed with the next logical question:

What types of businesses do millionaires own?

Our answer was the same one we give everyone:

You can't predict if someone is a millionaire by the type of business he's in.
