

WIPING THE WINDSHIELD CLEAN STARTS WITH LANGUAGE

You can expose your mindset by examining the words in your language and your thoughts. Take for example this comment made on the Fastlane Forum:

“I got engaged last Friday! I had been struggling with this for some time but decided to give marriage one more try. She’s a great girl and deserves the best, and I think I can give it to her.”

When you read this statement do you see assured success? Or pending failure? While I wish the man the best marriage, I see flaccid words that lack confidence: “Try,” “I think.” This language spells trouble. What would have convinced me otherwise?

“I got engaged last Friday! I had been struggling with this for some time but I decided to get married for the last time. She’s a great girl and deserves the best, and I will give it to her.”

Notice the difference. One is flimsy and the other is firm. Both might seem to say the same thing, but one implies possible failure while the other implies committed success. Your internal language carries weight. If a brain surgeon told you before surgery, “I think I can operate on you and I will try to succeed,” you should freak out and trade in your hospital gown for some eternal nighties.

Altering your words and thought perceptions are akin to wiping your windshield clean and seeing beyond your own sphere of sight. How do you manage your choice of perception? What language do you use in your mind? “I never . . . I can’t . . . If only . . .” Or do you choose better words? “It’s possible . . . I’ll overcome . . . I will . . . I can.”

If your world is canvassed with words like “never” and “can’t,” guess what? It’s true—you can’t and you never will! Is it possible to earn $1 million in one month? Sure it is, just ask the guy who does it. What makes his windshield different from yours? Good choices of perception translate into good choices of action. To change your perception is to change your future actions.

The goal of this book is to change your perception about wealth and money. Believe that retirement at any age is possible. Believe that old age is not a prerequisite to wealth. Believe that a job is just as risky as a business. Believe that the stock market isn’t a guaranteed path to riches. Believe that you can be retired just a few years from today.

So how do you upload new beliefs and overwrite the old ones? Find the information, resources, and the people that align with the new beliefs. For myself, I pursued the stories of those who acquired wealth fast and soon learned that “Get Rich Quick” wasn’t a myth. I never found that 19-year-old who got rich piling
