

The Speed of Success

Ideas are nothing but neurological flatulence.

~ MJ DEMARCO

“WOW—220 MPH!”

I hear the “220 comment” from youngsters who sneak a peek into my Lamborghini while it’s parked in public. The listed top speed on its speedometer is 220 mph. Yet, despite all that implied power, the car has never been driven to 220 mph or even 150 mph. The “220 mph” is nothing but “potential speed,” and everything you’ve read in this book is just that: idle, unrealized potential.

The Fastlane is a conglomeration of information that creates potential speed.

You understand the Fastlane roadmap and its wealth equation. You’ve dumped the Sidewalk and the Slowlane. Your vehicle is primed and filled with fuel. You are committed, not merely interested. You’re ready to engage in process, and you know exactly what you want and where you want to go. You’ve picked a road, and it’s time to hit the accelerator.

DOING NOTHING IS EXPECTED

Ever wonder if those late-night get-rich infomercial products really work? Can you really make millions trading foreign currency or buying real estate with no money down? The truth is you can—but the purveyors of these infomercials don’t tell you their real revenue model. They make money on planned obsolescence. Planned obsolescence is a marketer’s expectation that whatever they’re selling you, you won’t use it. And if you don’t use it, you are unlikely to ask for your money back.
