

expect a recession. I don't feel bad about bankruptcy because it wipes my slate clean and I can start over fresh. I'm already pre-approved for another credit card."

You live paycheck to paycheck.

"Wait, doesn't everyone?"

You don't alert a business when they give you incorrect change in your favor.

"Are you crazy? If a business makes a money mistake, I'm keeping it. It's not my fault their employee screwed up."

You have a negative net worth and little, if no savings.

"What's the point? You only make 1% on a savings account anyhow, and look at all those people who invested in the stock market. Suckers! At least if I spend every dime I can't lose it!"

You have no car insurance, no health insurance, and you have unprotected sex with uncommitted partners.

"What can I say, I'm a risk taker. I know that insurance and birth control are important, it's just not a priority."

You regularly gamble at the casino or buy lottery tickets.

"You gotta play to win right? Forget the odds—this time's different, I just feel it."

You immerse yourself in alternate realities, including Web site celebrity gossip blogs, television, sports, video games, or soap operas.

"I just love American Idol, Lost, Survivor and Peoples' Court. Monday through Friday from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m., I know exactly where I will be."

You've lost money on "get rich" schemes.

"There's got to be an easy way to wealth. If I just buy this program/DVD series/late-night infomercial product, I'll have the secret! Get rich easy is out there!"

Your family cringes when you ask for money or you quit asking because you know a lecture follows.

"Geez, it's just $500. My parents should take care of me until I die. Don't they see how hard I have it? I mean, look at this apartment! The granite countertops need to be replaced!"

Can you identify a behavioral pattern? These mindsets are indicative to the Sidewalk. Hopefully you're not feeling angry or defensive because that might indicate your beliefs are bred from the Sidewalk roadmap.