

Has Your Wealth Been Toxicified?

Wealth is the ability to fully experience life.

~ HENRY DAVID THOREAU

SOCIETY'S TOXIFICATION OF WEALTH

The lure of the Sidewalk evolves from society's poisonous and toxic corruption of wealth. Society has resolutely declared wealth's definition for you: "Wealth" is a chauffeur-driven Rolls Royce, chartered jets, exotic trips to the South Pacific, a mansion on the bay, and a penthouse in Las Vegas. Society says wealth is six-carat diamond earrings, Aston Martins, and watches that cost more than most people's homes. Society says wealth is an Indecent Proposal to buy a romp in the sack with Demi Moore for $1 million based on the argument "the night will come and go, but the money will last a lifetime." How am I doing? Sound like wealth?

Ask 10 people "what is wealth?" and you'll hear 10 different answers. Your "wealth" might be symbolized by a Lamborghini like it was for me, or it might be a farm on 70 acres in Montana and a stable full of race horses. If you think like most, "wealth" is instinctually defined by lavish luxury lifestyles.

Society has conditioned us to believe that wealth is an absolute construct perfected by material possessions. In fact, I've had to tailor the "hook" of this book to society's definition of wealth over the real definition. Why the misdirection? Like Pavlov's dogs, you've been trained to respond to it. You see, society has done a fabulous job of defining wealth for you, and unfortunately, they (again) have misled you. But don't worry; if you want luxury, the Fastlane can deliver.

THE WEALTH TRINITY: WHAT IS WEALTH?

Wealth isn't as ambiguous as it may seem. The happiest moments in my life were when I felt true wealth. And guess what? It wasn't the day I bought my first
