

believe that the parent company would not think twice before cutting them loose should a similar fate befall MCX.

Eventually, Jignesh would lose ownership of both his companies, spend three and a half months in jail, and have his assets attached as the authorities went about recovering the lenders' money.