

publish research on listed stocks are one of the biggest sources of company-specific information for investors. Small-caps have significantly less sell-side coverage than large-caps as shown in the exhibit below.