

The Red-Hot Summer	21
Serotonin and Randomness	22
Your Dentist Is Rich, Very Rich	24
Two: A Bizarre Accounting Method	26
Alternative History	26
Russian Roulette	27
An Even More Vicious Roulette	28
Smooth Peer Relations	29
Salvation Via Aeroflot	30
Solon Visits Regine's Night Club	32
George Will Is No Solon: On Counterintuitive Truths	34
Humiliated in Debates	37
Risk Managers	38
Three: A Mathematical Meditation on History	40
Europlayboy Mathematics	40
The Tools	41
Monte Carlo Mathematics	43
Fun in My Attic	45
Making History	45
Zorglubs Crowding the Attic	46
Denigration of History	47
The Stove Is Hot	48
My Solon	50
Distilled Thinking on Your PalmPilot	51
Breaking News	51
Shiller Redux	53
Gerontocracy	55
Philostratus in Monte Carlo: On the Difference Between Noise and Information	56
Four: Randomness, Nonsense, and the Scientific Intellectual	60
Randomness and the Verb	60
Reverse Turing Test	62

The Father of All Pseudothinkers	64
Monte Carlo Poetry	64
Five: Survival of the Least Fit – Can Evolution Be Fooled by Randomness?	68
Carlos the Emerging Markets Wizard	68
The Good Years	71
Averaging Down	72
Lines in the Sand	72
John the High-Yield Trader	74
The Quant Who Knew Computers and Equations	75
The Traits They Shared	78
A Review of Market Fools of Randomness Constants	78
Naïve Evolutionary Theories	81
Can Evolution be Fooled by Randomness?	82
Six: Skewness and Asymmetry	84
The Median Is Not the Message	84
Bull and Bear Zoology	86
An Arrogant 29-Year-Old Son	88
Rare Events	89
Symmetry and Science	90
The Rare Event Fallacy	93
The Mother of All Deceptions	93
Why Don't Statisticians Detect Rare Events?	96
A Mischievous Child Replaces the Black Balls	97
Seven: The Problem of Induction	99
From Bacon to Hume	99
Cygnus Atratus	100
Niederhoffer, Victorian Gentleman	100
Sir Karl's Promoting Agent	103
Location, Location	105
Popper's Answer	106
Open Society	108