

new company with recently acquired fixed assets will show a worse ratio than one that has old assets. In such a scenario, it would be unfair to label the older company inefficient.