

A friend once told me, "You're only going to host about a hundred events over the rest of your life. Make them special." How could you make your next dinner out, birthday, or anniversary special?

What are the milestones
you will soon reach?

How could you make them even more meaningful and memorable?