

What's something you feel obligated to do, but don't really want to?
(For example, doing laundry every day, buying groceries every week, or spending your weekends mowing the lawn.)

» The next time you encounter this, what are three ways you could respond differently?

1

2

3
