

Now think bigger. Write down another vision of who you are in ten years. This time, you're even more successful than you originally thought.

Where do you live?

What neighborhood?

What type of home?

What are you doing
in your career?

What's your job title?

How many hours
do you work?

What type of recognition
do you receive for your contributions?

How many people want to spend time with you? How rich are those personal relationships?

What opportunities
have you created to build and nurture a deep relationship with your
loved ones?
