

When was the last time you wished you had spent more on something?

Think about your parents' relationship with money.

What are the positives they taught you?

What are the negatives that you can change?